President's Message

Becky Morris, President

What is a Blog?

Coming soon to the Beyond Hearing Aid's website! Judy Vinegar writes a Hearing Loss Blog called "Judy's Hear-say."

Judy says that some people describe a blog as:

- A soapbox where you can proclaim your views.
- A creative space where you can discover what you think and why you think it.
- A Dr. Seuss character

She agrees with the person who said, "Blogs tend to be impressionistic, raw, honest, individualistic, highly opinionated and passionate." She invites you to "Sit back, relax, rant, rave, and say whatever is on your mind. My Hear-say Blog door is always open and the virtual coffee is on the house."

Judy is looking forward to hearing your thoughts, comments, and questions.

CLA7 Amplified Power Neckloop $119.95

ClearSounds Amplified Neckloop: Can You Hear Me Now?

At last! This neckloop is ideal if you have T-coil hearing aids and you want more amplification from your corded phone, cordless phone and cell phone:

- 30 dB amplification with external amplification dial
- 2.5 mm connector
- 3.5 mm connection adapter
- Battery powered with (2) AAA batteries
- Built-in microphone

New!

Using an iPod: Neckloops versus Hatis Headsets

Judy's Note: Keep in mind that all neckloops are mono (not stereo) devices. If you are interested in excellent music sound quality, try Hitec's Hatis Epic II or Freedom Mach II headset instead of a neckloop.

Here is a comment from someone who uses these Hatis headsets for iPod use: "They have opened up my world. They are worth every penny and more. I have not used any other products and never will. Be kind to yourself and buy them."

Hatis Epic Stereo
HAT-ED200 $109.99

Hatis Freedom Mach II
HAT-DUAL $159.99
